

The National Institute of Public Health organises
Stakeholders' Forum - a round table within the project
"Training newly arrived migrants for community interpreting and intercultural mediation – TRAMIG"

"Bridging linguistic and cultural barriers in practice and the need for linguistic and intercultural support", which will take place on Thursday, 5 November 2020, starting at 1 pm, via the online tool Go To Meeting

PROGRAM

12:50–13:00 Opening applications for a web link

13:00–14:00 »Bridging linguistic and cultural barriers in practice and the need for linguistic and intercultural support«

Moderator:

Rade Pribaković Brinovec, National Institute of Public Health

The TRAMIG project: opportunities for local contexts,

Nike Kocijančič Pokorn, University of Ljubljana

Participants in the round table:

Juš Škraban, external associate of the National Institute of Public Health

Adelina Ahmetaj Çafleshi, Community Health Centre Žalec

Franci Zlataar, Slovene Philanthropy

Alida Zagorc Šuligoj, Ljubljana Public Education Centre - Cene Štupar

Andreja Skarlovnik Ziherl, Slovene Association of Conference Interpreters

Boris Plavšič, Public Health Directorate, Ministry of Health

14:00–14:15 Discussion and conclusions

The round table will be held in Slovene with interpretation into English.